Allied Dissension;
Attacks French Press

Impertinence of Newspapers Fraught With Danger to Unity of Allies, He Declares.

SAYS HE HAS SUPPORT OF AMERICA AND ITALY

Statement of Premier Slated to Draw Heated Resentment of France and Poland.

BY A. E. JOHNSON,
United News Staff Correspondent.
London, May 18.—Lloyd-George has reiterated in terms that afford no misconstruction, that Adelbert Koranty and his Polish irregulars must be curbed, that the Silesian question must be settled by the supreme council, and that the Versailles treaty must be upheld and respected.

The premier cites American and Italian sentiment as backing his demand for fairness to Germany under the treaty, and scores in vitriolic words the "trumvitated and distorted" reports of his own attitude by French newspapers.

Lloyd-George's indictment of the French press, it may be said, is a more important phase of the controversy than appears on the surface.

Fraught With Mischief.

With all respect to the French press, he declared, "I would say that the habit of treating every expression of allied opinion which does not coincide with their own as an impertinence is fraught with mischief. That attitude, if persisted in, will be fatal to any entente."

This is not the first time that Paris newspapers have aroused the ire of Lloyd-George or, for that matter, of the statesmen of other countries who were attempting to solve international difficulties. Under the unfortunate and ill-advised interference of the semi-official press in the French capital.

During the peace conference, it will be recalled, the American president himself, angered by the continual propaganda of certain newspapers closely connected with the government, was backed by the British premier in a threat to remove the peace conference out of Paris unless the campaign ceased.

And it was partly due to the same influence that Woodrow Wilson was forced to declare that he would quit the conference entirely.

Opposed to Militarism.

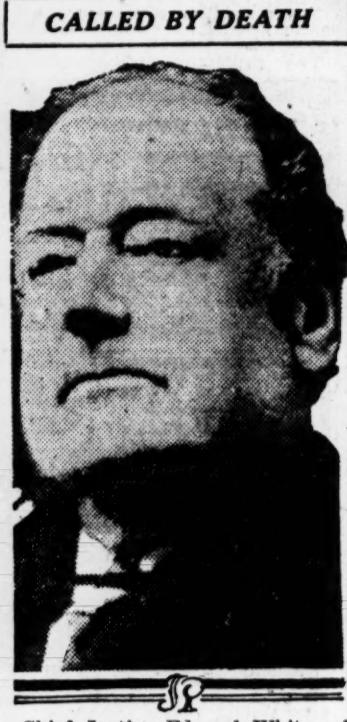

News that Secretary Hughes has denied the request of Poland for action in the Silesian question is received here as confirming recent dispatches by the United News showing that the British and American governments are in hearty moral agreement on the Greater European problems, that the United States is distinctly opposed to the militaristic policy of France, and that Lloyd George has greeted America's entrance into European politics once more as welcome assurance that he will have a strong partner in his controversy with Britain.

"I have never witnessed such unanimity on any question," said the premier. "All shades of opinion in the American, Italian and British press take the same view."

"Under these circumstances," he continued, "the treaty of Versailles is a document of infinite moment—especially to the nations of the entente. It binds us together when there is so much to divide us. Those who treat its provisions as if they were the sport of passion and prejudice may not have to live long to regret their hot-headedness."

Isold Stroke.

The premier's denunciation of the French press is the boldest stroke of open diplomacy since President Wilson made his dramatic direct appeal to the Italian people on the Adriatic, and, coming during the framing of the treaty of Versailles, is admitted on authority here that the premier was really addressing the French government, inasmuch Chief Justice Edward White, of the United States supreme court, who died early Thursday morning.

Answers Last Call*Death Comes to Chief Justice White Early Thursday Morning at Age of 76.

Washington, May 19.—Edward Douglass White, chief justice of the United States supreme court, died at 2 o'clock this morning at a hotel pihere where he submitted to an operation last Friday. He was 76 years old and had been ill six weeks.

The chief justice had been unconscious since late Tuesday afternoon when acute dilation of the heart occurred. Up to then attending physicians had hoped for a rapid recovery after an operation for bladder trouble.

Unexpected Relapse.

After the unexpected relapse the physician who had expected the chief justice to live through that night, The Rev. Father S. J. Coughlin, of Georgetown, D. C., administrator of last sacrament during the early evening and members of the immediate family were summoned to the bedside.

Death was found to be due directly complications which developed

after the unexpected relapse the physician who had expected the chief justice to live through that night, The Rev. Father S. J. Coughlin, of Georgetown, D. C., administrator of last sacrament during the early evening and members of the immediate family were summoned to the bedside.

Committee Attended.

Chief Justice White, who was a massive figure, had been described as "the most intellectual as well as the most commanding man in the country." One of the greatest privileges of his position he often said, was that of dissent, and he frequently used that prerogative. Born in Louisiana and a graduate of the Confederate army in the congress of the civil war, he became a national figure in 1891 upon his election to the United States supreme court. He served there only three years, however, President Cleveland appointing him to the supreme court in 1894. He was made chief justice in 1910. President Taft, who boldly disregarded the custom of the supreme court, appointed him to the office of chief justice in 1911. President Wilson appointed him to the supreme court in 1913. Mr. White participated in just about every battle of the anti-trust and commerce regulation laws.

Trinity Bay District.

Furthermore, it is apparent, it is said, in the Trinity Bay district that the maintenance of a non-cotton zone for one year only is not long enough to accomplish extermination.

The conference declared that there is now a possibility of exterminating the pink boll worm, but that this opportunity is one that must be taken prompt advantage of. On the other hand, it felt that the continuation of the infestation in any area under a regulated system is fraught with grave danger to the entire cotton industry. Therefore, it declared that the present establishment of regulated areas in West Texas and New Mexico should be considered only as a temporary arrangement to be conducted only so long as may be necessary for appropriations to be made to maintain this district as a non-cotton zone.

In the meantime, also, it recommended that efforts be made to secure the co-operation of the Mexican authorities in maintaining a non-cotton zone in the northern part of the border. In order to provide further safeguard against the introduction of infestation, it declared that the immigration service should be established in the border towns and the border should be so strengthened as to secure the movement of all laborers coming from Mexico into the United States through the proper points of entry.

It was understood, and his act was maintained, that adequate inspections may be maintained.

Dispatches received in Atlanta Wednesday stated that John C. McBride, whose name is inseparably linked with the operations of the great bunt syndicate in Atlanta, has forfeited $1,000 bond under which he had been released after his arrest in Baltimore, Md., for the Atlanta authorities.

He was due to appear before a magistrate in Baltimore Wednesday morning and, as his wife, Mrs. McBride, had failed to do so, his bond was forfeited, said the reports.

McBride was arrested May 6 on a complaint on receipt of a telegram from the authorities here. His bond was signed by Fred Nordenholz of Baltimore.

It is believed in Atlanta that McBride is in Havana, Cuba, at present.

Pleasant Miner, special agent from the office of Solicitor John B. Bain, left here Monday to attend the hearing which was due Wednesday armed with extradition papers from Governor Dorsey.

The state's attorney, McBride connected him with the operation of gambling houses at the Sans Souci hotel, on Creek street, and at 49 1/2 Central avenue.

From Washington.BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN,

Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, May 18.—(By Constitution leased wire)—The two-day conference in Washington in regard to the pink boll worm and the Mexican bean beetle, attended by representatives of the cotton-growing states, adjourned today.

Ira A. Williams, general agent of the Georgia state board of entomology and representing also the Georgia state department of agriculture, is greatly pleased with the result of the conference, especially in regard to the pink boll worm. It is found much progress has been made by the federal horticultural board and the state authorities toward eradication of the pest, and if the work is properly carried on in the future, he feels sure that it will not be allowed to spread into Georgia and will be eradicated from the states now infected.

The Mexican bean beetle, according to the report of Mr. Williams, is very much more threatening to Georgia crops at the present time. It is within four miles of the Georgia line and if some preventive measures are not taken immediately, will infest a good part of North Georgia this year. Should the beetle spread over the states, it will do great damage to leguminous crops in Georgia, destroying almost wholly the bean crop, lima beans, so damage the bean crop until it will not be profitable to grow them, as well as doing considerable damage to soybeans. This would be a tremendous loss to Georgia farmers.

Capt. James H. English, another member of the committee, was earnestly in sympathy with this movement, feeling that the practice of crowding cars about the monument was one to be generally disapproved. Judge Ben Hill, of the Supreme Court of Georgia, James Nevin, editor of The Georgian, and others present took the same view, so that the directors of the chamber of commerce are to be enlisted in the effort to keep the space clear, for the looks of the thing, and in order that visitors and others who desire to look at the statue and read the inscriptions may do so with convenience.

Committees Are Named.

Clark Howell, James B. Nevin and James S. Cohen were appointed to receive and look after Robert L. O'Brien, editor of the Boston Herald, who will represent the governor of Massachusetts, and a committee headed by Forrest Adams will be called to the reception and entertainment of the speaker, John H. Atwood.

The committee unanimously agreed to ask the directors of the chamber of commerce to request an order from city council that from now on no parking shall be allowed about or near the Grady monument on Marietta street. "Now that we are to renew our active appreciation for this great and useful citizen, let's endeavor to see that his statue will no longer be a place for the gathering of automobiles, trucks and drays," said Mr. Wilkinson.

Strict Quarantine.

Strict quarantine regulations recommended in order to prevent the spread of the pest, and establishment zones wherein none of these crops shall be plowed until the pest can be exterminated is being considered.

Mr. Wilkinson pointed out that in the exercises the most prominent activity of the individual citizen or organization will be the placing of a wreath. Governor Dorsey, for instance, will bring a floral offering for Georgia; Mayor James L. Jackson, of Atlanta, a prominent local citizen for his old state, Mississippi, and so on. Plants for the great celebration of Henry W. Grady's anniversary, May 24, were completed at the meeting Wednesday afternoon of the committee of the Atlanta chamber of commerce on arrangements for the event. Traffic regulations for the day were discussed, sub-committees were appointed, and a general statement covering all phases of the occasion was made by Mell R. Wilkinson.

The committees unanimously agreed to ask the directors of the chamber of commerce to request an order from city council that from now on no parking shall be allowed about or near the Grady monument on Marietta street. "Now that we are to renew our active appreciation for this great and useful citizen, let's endeavor to see that his statue will no longer be a place for the gathering of automobiles, trucks and drays," said Mr. Wilkinson.

The indictment charges that Catts after obtaining pardons for two negro convicts forced them to work on one of his farms in west Florida. The former governor recently was indicted by the Bradford county grand jury for accepting $700 for a pardon for a prisoner serving a life term for murder.

Governing body of the police force. "You are subservient to the police," he said. "Yes, sir," replied Chief Beavers. "Everybody has to have someone to answer to. You know that." "Not the Real Chief." "No, I do not," said Ewing. "That's what Mr. Black pointedly said. This investigation wouldn't be going on now, if I had been allowed to operate your government. I know that I and I believe the rest of the juntas would be perfectly contented to have you the real boss of that department."

Another feature of the afternoon's testimony was the introduction of an affidavit from Rehard, the Ohio banker buncy victim, obtained by the general bad character of Henry Oliver on the Stand.

Lieutenant George C. Oliver, of the city police, told the witness of a sparsely attended afternoon session. He testified as to his being the real boss of that department.

"Come down," said Mr. Black.

"I'm here," replied Finch. He had been whisky runner was next called, and testified that he had been in the whisky hauling business with Fred Smith during the period in which Smith declared he had delivered liquor to Al Martin. Finch swore that during all that time Smith had never delivered whisky to him, and that he had never given him a 9 months term in DeKalb county.

"Are you serving your term now?" asked Mr. Black.

"Well, I was serving it when I left."

"How did you happen to leave?"

"Well I just left."

"Did you leave your address?"

"No sir."

Associated Short Time.

Mr. Black then developed the fact that Bert Donaldson had associated with Smith but a few months of the 2 year period during which Smith had testified he was delivering to Martin.

"How much whisky would you bring to town?"

"About 250 gallons a week."

"You were never arrested in Atlanta?"

"No sir."

"How long were you hauling whisky?"

"For many years—about."

"How many other fellows were delivering whisky in Atlanta regularly?"

"I knew of 30 or 40."

"There about 7,500 gallons a week isn't it?"

"I guess so."

"Did you ever deliver whisky to Wm. Knight?"

"No sir."

"You knew Knight is in the whisky business?"

"No sir."

Mr. Black then fired questions at Finch to trace his movements from the time he escaped until the present. Finch told of an indefinite period of a busily trip to Birmingham but wouldn't tell who he went to see.

"What did you first hear of Smith's story?" asked Mr. Black.

"Sunday morning."

"Who told you?"

"Harry Rivers."

"Who is Harry Rivers?"

"I don't know everybody in Atlanta knew him."

"He's a notorious bootlegger, isn't he?"

"I guess so."

"How did Harry Rivers know you knew anything about Henry Smith?"

"I don't know."

"It was developed that Finch had been arrested during the morning and was then in custody."

"Finch had told me he had sold the car to someone else. He told of an aunt Mrs. Rush, in the cafe business and of a brother who had come to town later and owned gun and hunting equipment, and the notorious Amerlius Lee came to get the equipment from my store."

"After that, we had spoken of a hunting dog. I met him on Peachtree street. He said I had been generous and friendly lending him some money when he had a suit of clothes. I refused as I knew clothes were high. So he took me by the arm and took me into a jewelry store. He insisted on buying me a watch, which he had been extremely generous to him. I showed it to the board of fire commissioners and told them Woodward had been in town. They told me the fire commissioners had told me Floyd Woodward was the man who had killed Ed Mills, and that was the first I had known of it."

"Floyd was a friend of mine. I didn't ask much about him or his business, but I liked him. He began to hang around my cafe more and more. When I saw him working with some of the best citizens of Atlanta, and there never was anything secretive about his talk, I was satisfied he was a good man."

"I was in the office of Mr. Farman, the attorney for the city, and he had a suit of clothes. I refused as I knew clothes were high. So he took me by the arm and took me into a jewelry store. He insisted on buying me a watch, which he had been extremely generous to him. I showed it to the board of fire commissioners and told them Woodward had been in town. They told me the fire commissioners had told me Floyd Woodward was the man who had killed Ed Mills, and that was the first I had known of it."

"I learned of a courthouse employee who, while drunk, told a lieutenant of his cutter trick in getting the whiskey he sent me his name. The lieutenant reported it, and I was cleared. From that day on I have been accused of selling liquor."

"One afternoon during the war I was accosted by a Mr. Bailey, who said there were six cases of White Rock addressed to me, and that he was an agent of justice. He had found some fine whisky packed in the White Rock cases. I disclaimed all knowledge of the thing."

"I learned of a courthouse employee who, while drunk, told a lieutenant of his cutter trick in getting the whiskey he sent me his name. The lieutenant reported it, and I was cleared. From that day on I have been accused of selling liquor."

"I never saw this man Henry Smith before he testified, so help me God. If I had handled liquor, I had no intention to put me so far back in jail that I could not get a postcard to the front door."

"Joe Ewing is so crooked that when he dies they'll have to screw him up like a mummy and burn him and cut short by Chairman Sims, whereupon Al Martin apologized."

"Finch came Sunday night," he concluded, "and was telling an editorial about myself in The Constitution. I took a gun and went to meet Finch at the door. He looked through the door and asked him about getting an affidavit from Finch. Sig Eitelbaum, in Mr. Finch's office, got an affidavit from him that night."

Mr. Martin told him the story of Joe Ewing's visit, the account being the same as was testified to by Knight Tuesday evening.

Mects "Dutch" Cook.

"At the Elk's initiation at the Auditorium last night 'Dutch' Cook had offered to pay his expenses to go to Birmingham and try to get the letter which the little Smith girl said Finch had written to her, and which Henry Smith's father sent to Harry. On his return Cook said he was immediately called to the grand jury, and it was clear that someone knew all about it. Finch's Dutch said Henry told him he hadn't received the letter."

"Dutch and I had gone to the Smith house before he went to Birmingham. We wanted to see George Smith, the father, who was out. I asked Mrs. Smith if Henry would swear to it, she replied that he was not raised that way, and that all that was all that was said, and we were not there more than seven minutes."

"His parents were ex-official members of the police, but the food and inexpensive food at his cafe, and its convenience to the courthouse, were explained by Al Martin as the reason why detectives ate so much."

"Johnson testified about the detective table," he said. "That table was put there after this bungo probe began, because business picked up much in this business. Johnson was not working for me when the table was placed in the window, which he denied."

DORSEY DEFENDS PEONAGE BOOKLET

In a straightforward statement, Governor Hugh M. Dorsey Wednesday replied to Judge W. H. Searcy, of the Federal judicial circuit, that Samuel L. Olive, president of the Georgia senate, who criticised his Negro booklets, "was a scoundrel."

The chief executive shows that at the time the booklet was published he withheld the names of counties and individuals because people in the better classes of people in each community disapproved and condemned the conditions.

The publicity which has been centered on the Negro booklets is the result of the description of cases number 121 to 123 and county 21, is the result of the jurist's revelation, asserted the governor, who said that this is to be regretted since he had made his own position clear.

Governor's Position.
"I have withheld the names of counties and individuals because I desire to give harmful publicity to those counties, when I am convinced that, even in the counties where the authorities did not occur, the better element in those counties and the whole state, who constitute the majority of our people, will condemn such conduct as that of the Negroes, as they correct them, when they see and realize the staggering sum to total of such cases, which, while seemingly confined to a small minority of our country, yet bring disgrace upon the entire Southern people," the governor said in his original statement.

The statement, originated by the chief executive, was based on similar letters or reports to sustain the charges, he stated, and this evidence is open as the first step to eradicate the contention. It is much better for the people to face the array of evidence and strive to better the situation than to criticise when the facts are that the charges are true, he declared.

Complete Statement.

"To the People of Georgia:
Hon. Samuel L. Olive, president of the senate, is correct in saying: The governor states that the negro has been lynched and cites five cases."

"Nothing could better illustrate the moderation of the statement made by me with reference to the treatment of the negro in Georgia. While I mentioned only five cases, since 1885 mobs in Georgia have shot, hanged, burned or drowned 416 negroes, some of them women, girls, the aged and the young. In the last sixty days a mob has taken a helpless old negro woman from her home and drowned her by night."

"For the record, it is my opinion that the case No. 5, the burning of a negro by slow fire, while a mob of 3,000 looked on, occurred in another county. That was another negro burned, not mention ed by me, but called to the attention of the public by the senator.

"In neither of the men burning human beings, nor in any one of the 413 other cases, has a member of the lynching mob been punished in Georgia."

Judge Adams Speaks.

"Hon. Samuel L. Adams, of Savannah, a former member of our supreme court, in speaking before the Georgia Bar association in 1916, said:

"Lawlessness is the crime of crimes, the evil of evils. Lawlessness, in its full fruition is anarchy, and anarchy is the culmination of all sins. It is the possibility of the powers of darkness."

"There is one form of lawlessness in which Georgia has a 'bad eminence.' I refer to lynching. We have had lynchings, notwithstanding the frequent infractions of the penal law, but as long as lynching is common, and is condemned by the public conscience, and the public sentiment, they are dangerously near anarchy. Lynching is inherently vicious. It strikes at the foundations of law, government, and society. It violates the law to open shame." It is defiant of all law and all authority. Lynchers commit a greater crime than their victims, no matter how great his offense."

Women Lynched.

"The published statistics, accepted generally as reliable, show that last year there were sixty-nine lynchings, fifty-five were Negroes and forty-three were white people. This is six more negroes and eleven more whites than were put to death by mobs in 1915. Indeed in the records are three women."

"In not less than four cases, it was demonstrated after the lynching, that the persons put to death were innocent, and the officers charged. Eighteen of the lynchings of 1915, or more than one-fourth of the total number occurred in the state of Georgia. The bulk of the lynchings, however, put to death were negroes; I believe all except one."

"Only 15 per cent of the total number lynched in the United States were charged with the capital crime. A number of the cases involved only charges of misdemeanors, or offenses which at most would be "creeping."

Suspending Facts Mistake.

"All good citizens deplore our disgraceful record.

The remedy is not easily answered. It certainly does not lie in the denial or suppression, or ignoring of the facts.

"Insists that it is the part of not only of honesty, but of wisdom to look the facts squarely in the face, impress the people with their extreme gravity, and the grave responsibility of the people to face the array of evidence and strive to better the situation than to criticise when the facts are true, he declared.

How This Great Invention Came About

IN 1914, when the Gillette Company was called on to devote its energies to meeting the shaving needs of the Armies and Navies of the World, it was given its first opportunity to study at first-hand the shaving habits of men in the mass.

A Committee then formed to collect and collate the data so obtained found literally hundreds of variations in the way of shaving with the Gillette.

Open adjustment, close adjustment, and every shade between the extremes.

Tight grip, loose grip. Grip with the whole hand and grip with the tips of the fingers. Grip close up under the head and grip at the very end of the handle.

Variation as much as 18 degrees in approaching the razor to the face. In short—every variation of beard, skin and temperament reflected in a man's use of his Gillette.

The First Shaving Instrument of Precision

A GROUP of Technical Experts then started out to perfect the Gillette mechanically—to make it finer and more accurate, an instrument of precision.

Thousands of measurements and calculations had been worked out, when three remarkable discoveries were made.

These were the Gillette Fulcrum Shoulder, Overhanging Cap and Channelled Guard.

These three discoveries proved to be the crux of the whole problem.

For the first time in any razor, here is micrometric control of blade position.

A shaving edge rigid and straight—in perfect contact with the cap through its whole length!

Here is that thing long sought but never before achieved—a shaving edge guarded from the face but free to the beard.

All in all, it took some 45,000 calculations, proved out by more than 19,000 actual shaving tests, to make the New Gillette an accomplished fact.

It is now ready—the New Improved Gillette Safety Razor.

A radical improvement over the old-type Gillette, and the first shaving instrument of precision ever invented.

Gillette Fulcrum Shoulder and Overhanging Cap

AT the left you see a diagram (much enlarged) of this epoch-making improvement—the New Gillette Safety Razor.

You see the Fulcrum Shoulder and Overhanging Cap.

You see how the blade is biflexed between Overhanging Cap and Fulcrum Shoulder.

It is flexed once into the inside curve of the cap. This is the "minor flexure"—the curve for easy gliding action and play of the wrist in shaving.

It is flexed a second time—more sharply and on a shorter radius—by the grip of the Overhanging Cap the whole length of the Fulcrum Shoulder.

This is the "major flexure"—a mighty advance, make no mistake about that!

It holds the blade rigid and flat the whole length of the shaving edge.

It gives exactness to 1/1000 inch—a micro-metric precision impossible with the old-type Gillette, and never even dreamed of with any other shaving device ever produced.

Gillette Channelled Guard

FOLLOW the New Gillette over the face, and see the results of the Channelled Guard.

The skin lies flat against the tangent of cap and guard.

The beard springs upright against the shaving edge.

The edge comes automatically against the very surface of the skin.

It cuts SQUARE across the hair—each hair slipped CLEAN THROUGH.

Cut hairs and lather go into the Channel. They cannot jam in between blade and guard and cap. They cannot clog the shaving action. Your razor edge is free every inch of every stroke of your shave.

75% More Efficiency and Comfort —More Shaves from Your Blades

SHAVE once over with the New Gillette, and you'll find your face smoother, cooler, fresher than after going twice over with any other razor, even the old-type Gillette. Adjustment is automatic. Precise to 1/1000 inch.

Your wonderful Gillette Blades can now give you ALL the luxury of the finest shaving edge in the world. Better shave—longer service—more shaves from your Blades.

All Over the World

FOR nearly 20 years the Gillette Company has been serving men all over the world with Gillette Safety Razors and Blades.

A long-standing, world-wide resource almost without parallel—now putting this new shaving improvement at the service of the greatest number of men in the shortest possible time.

The New Improved Gillette Safety Razor will be sold by more than 250,000 Gillette Dealers in every corner of the Civilized Globe.

NOTE:—The Gillette Company assumes full responsibility for the service of Gillette Blades when used in any genuine Gillette Razor—either old-type or New Improved Gillette. But with imitations of the genuine Gillette it cannot take responsibility for service of Blades.

DESERTED FAMILY FOR SECOND WIFE, SAY U. S. AGENTS

A wife and children must never be allowed to interfere with new affairs of the heart, according to the doctrine put into practice, it is said, by James B. Strickland, whose devotion to the principle led him into marriage with a young woman living on the Marietta street car line and ultimately led him to a cell in Fulton tower. United States Commissioner Colquitt Carter will extend his opinion of the theory to-day.

Strickland posed as a bachelor and a lawyer of promising ability and had won the heart of the young woman whom he married in April six weeks ago, according to department of justice agents, who arrested him on charges of white slavery. They learned that Strickland has a wife and several children in Alabama, and that his legal connection consisted more of promise than ability. The name of the young woman in the case is withheld for the present.

HOPES TO PROTECT STATE FROM PESTS

Believe that action should be based upon infestation conditions prevailing on the Mexican as well as on the American front, and that in such action both federal and state authorities should co-operate.

It also declared, that inasmuch as the scope of legislation is undertaken for the benefit of the country at large, as well as for the direct benefit of the states wherein infestation may be found, that the funds utilized in maintaining non-cotton zones should be supplied jointly by the state and federal governments, in accordance with payments already established in the case of the war against tuberculosis and the foot and mouth disease of cattle.

54th Anniversary

Everybody and Her Sister Is Coming to The Silk Sale

Here, assembled in almost unlimited quantities and broad varieties, are the rich, the beautiful, the fine silks of fashion—at Anniversary Sale prices.

We do not think there is an off color, and we know there isn't a "tender" yard in the whole array.

The savings are real and unmistakable. They were achieved by merchandising—by taking the quantities necessary to sell at the low prices you rightfully and naturally expect of a Rich Sale of Silks.

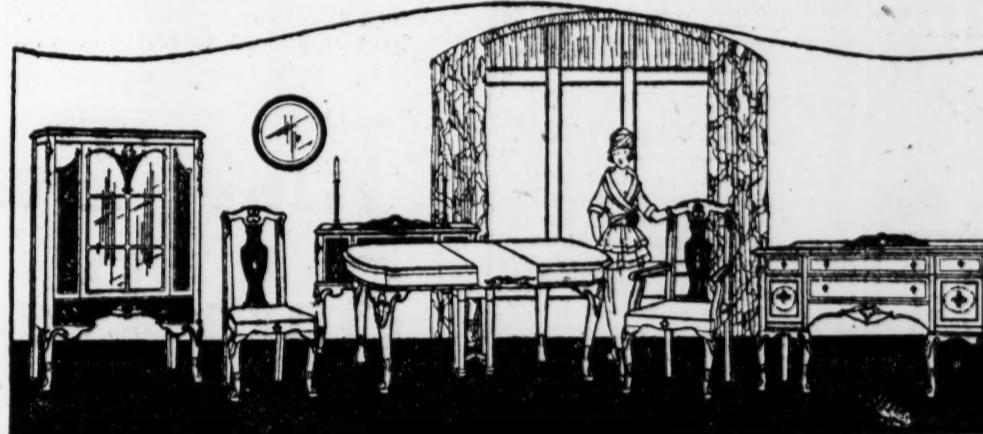

Perhaps it is not amiss that this is the most successful of all famous Silk Sales in the "First Silk Store of the South."

You'll find silk for every possible silk need in this Sale. Everything from silks for a bridal gown to silk for a coat lining—everything from imported pongee at 59c the yard to silk davetyn for $4.69 the yard.

They are made of cross-bar nainsook, and they are well made, cut very full and reinforced.

There are all sizes from 34 to 44.

We've a great quantity of these that we bought very fortunately. They are worth $1. The price today is 69c.

One of the Finest Things the Anniversary Has Brought---This

$950 Chippendale Dining Room Suite at $550

Antique brown mahogany—that's what this suite is made of. It's exactly as pictured. Note the carvings—how beautiful they are! See the gracefulness of the lines of the Chippendale design.

Examine the suite. It is put together to stay! Open the drawers—mahogany lined with dust-proof bottoms. It is worth every penny of $950! Why is it $550 then? It was bought specially for the Anniversary—but chosen with the same care and attention to quality as though we were buying it for our regular stocks.

—10 pieces go to make up the suite. They are: 72-inch sideboard, 42-inch serving cabinet, 48x60-inch dining table that may be extended to 6 feet; 45-inch china cabinet, five side chairs and one arm chair. The chairs have tapestry covered seats.

This $650 Italian Dining Room Suite Is Now $325

—Looks impossible for such a suite to be marked so low in price. The Anniversary did it. We went to market with just such a suite in mind. It had to be constructed well. Had to be pretty. And we were going to buy it specially and mark it that way! Now—you have the opportunity to come here today and buy it at $325!

—It is a ten-piece suite—as pictured. Consists of 60-inch sideboard, 36-inch closed serving cabinet, 42-inch china cabinet, 54-inch round table that may be extended to 6 feet, one arm and five side chairs.

—Constructed of brown mahogany—just the sort of wood you'd expect to get in a $650 suite.

—Look at the many beautiful things about this suite—the knobs on the sideboard, for instance. Notice the lines of the suite. All in all—it's simply fine!

UPHOLDING DORSEY.

In dealing with the controversy that has arisen over the recent public statements made by Governor Dorsey regarding inter-racial conditions in this state, Georgia cannot accomplish anything by doing the ostrich act.

It has got to face the facts!

First and foremost is the fact that Georgia leads all other states in the matter of lynching.

Regardless of what the remedy might be, or of how folks like or dislike it, that is the record!

Another fact Georgia must face is that recently the most revolting instance of peonage ever known was brought to light in this state, and that other disclosures that followed emphasized the seriousness of the situation.

Those are the facts; and, try as we might, we cannot escape them.

It is preposterous to think that the state can bury its head in the sand, ostrich fashion, and hide from the world some of the things that we wish the world did not know.

It is criticism from the outside that has caused the present controversy.

Governor Dorsey did the courteous and the many thing in calling public attention to conditions, and it is worthy of note that his position is being commended even by some of his most active political adversaries.

They know that he had only one possible motive in doing what he has done, and that was the good of the state.

The governor is out of politics.

He declares that he is a candidate for no office, and that under no circumstances would he ask for any public office, his intention being to settle down to the practice of law at the close of his term as governor.

But he is being criticised by others who are in politics and who are seeking political office!

Those who have sponsored such efforts are now hearing the response of the better sentiment of the state—from those citizens who are not on a hunt to make dema-gogic political capital out of every passing breeze, and to see just how far they may be able to turn it to their own use!

From one end of the state to the other Georgia is beginning to realize the meaning of the criticism that is being heaped upon the state by the outside world, as it is reflected by the press of the entire nation.

This criticism is coming, not by reason of anything Governor Dorsey has had to say, but by reason of the condition that provoked the governor's statement!

In some of the instances cited by him the governor may have been indiscreet.

The manner of his presentation of the situation might have been improved upon.

But that is beside the point.
The main thing is as to whether or not there is ground for the governor's statement that the state should put a stop to the unenviable notoriety it has obtained as being the leader of the lynching states of the union.

Is the governor right or wrong
on that proposition?

Now that we have had expressions from the political end of the controversy, it is time to hear from those who would not sacrifice law and order to gain a political end, and it is distinctly creditable that some of those who have been among the most conspicuous political antagonists of the governor are big enough and patriotic enough to give him their support in his courageous appeal for the enforcement of law, and the protection of the good name of the state!

FOR DISARMAMENT.

Announcement that the naval appropriations bill as it will be voted upon by the senate will include an amendment providing for the opening of negotiations with the other nations looking to a program of world disarmament will undoubtedly be received with gratification the world over.

The indications are that even the most determined "preparedness" enthusiasts in both houses of congress will discontinue their fight against this amendment, and that the bill will be enacted substantially in its present form.

Especially will this amendment meet the hearty approval and support of the mothers of America, for it is significant of a movement toward the end of war; and it is the mothers of men who realize, more forcefully than any other element of the people, what war really means!

Statisticians tell us that of every dollar the American people pay into the federal treasury only about three cents are applied to a constructive purpose, the rest going to meet the financial burdens imposed by war—past or prospective!

And the people of other nations are likewise burdened even to a greater extent than are the citizens of this country.

Just now the expenditures in preparations for war possibilities are pyramiding at a rate that if not checked, will eventually bankrupt the world!

Of course, it would be impractical and unwise, if not fatal, for the United States to attempt to disarm while the other world powers are going ahead building batteries and equipping new armies, as practically all of them are now doing.

But it is altogether safe, timely, honorable and appropriate for this nation to be the first to move in that direction by suggesting a world conference with universal disarmament in view.

That is really what this amendment to the naval appropriation bill amounts to; and it is to be hoped that it will be permitted to remain in the act, and that it will prove to be the first official and legal step toward disarmament and—universal peace!

CLASSICAL TEXAS TOWN-NAMES.
(From The Honey Grove Signal.)
Collin county is trying to get in Fannin county's class in the contest for classical village and community names. Collin submits a fairly good list, which includes Monkey Run, Possum Trot, Buzzard
Roost, Frog Hollow and Skeeter Flat. The names do credit to those giving them, but of course they do not compare in real classical nomenclature with Fannin's prizewinner, Lizard Lope, Lazy Neck, Bug Tuse-sie and Stool Grub.

GRADY IN THE SCHOOLS.
It is a peculiarly timely feature of the Henry W. Grady memorial that special exercises in his memory will be held in the public schools on Tuesday morning, the 24th.

And it is a happy thought of the committee of arrangements that men who knew Mr. Grady should talk to the boys and girls on that occasion. They will have something to say that will interest every pupil, and we feel sure that the principal of every school will gladly adopt this suggestion.

The boys and girls of today hardly realize as their parents do the many-sided genius of the rarely gifted Georgian whose memory is to be honored next week, and it is doubtful whether they have any adequate conception of his great constructive work for the south.

Henry W. Grady was the incarnation of the "Atlanta Spirit," a man who knew no such word as fail. It was in the atmosphere of difficulty that his genius became transcendent and his delight was in overcoming obstacles that paralyzed the energies of ordinary men.

It is this type of manhood that appeals to the hopeful spirit of youth and there could be no surer guaranty of a genuine revival of the Atlanta Spirit than to see the boys and girls of Atlanta devoted to the memory of Grady and guided by his inspiring leadership.

We trust that the superintendent and the principals will see that the appropriate exercises are held in every school in Atlanta next Tuesday morning.

We agree with Dr. Einstein that "the sun's rays are shifting," for we notice how they rouse the sleeping Sons of Rest and make them hunt the shady spots.

Once they growled because the dollar didn't go far enough, but now they won't let it get out of sight.

Colonel George Bailey criticizes the Georgia peach crop, yet he knows very well that the law prevents us from raising peach-and honey, as formerly.

No matter how much German

This May weather makes a shivering world mad enough to knock

We shall not bother about the Einstein theory unless it comes around and interferes with our garden work.

Besides the chicken pot pie, the main dish includes, oh, come on, the creamed Irish potatoes, fruit salad, coffee and ice tea, and ice cream ties are co-operating with Mrs.

FIGHT TO SAVE GORDON STARTS

Sen. Harris, Rep. Upshaw and Zode Smith Tell Reasons for Salvaging of Camp.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

In the beginning our business was based on an ideal. Not the store, not the merchandise, not the capital invested, not anything MATERIAL. Anyone can lease a building, stock it with merchandise and advertise. But what of the "BUSINESS?" It doesn't spring up overnight. You can not create it in a day.

Honesty, courtesy, service are the qualities that win in the long run. Time is the only thing that tests and proves them. Business is an EFFECT. Confidence is the CAUSE. We measure the value of this business, gauge its possibilities—not by the size of the store, not by the scope of the stock—but by the breadth of YOUR CONFIDENCE.

The tendency of business is towards a higher standard. Men still use questionable tactics, but it is not as dominant as it once was, the spread of knowledge, the literature of trade, the power of advertising—THESE are constantly encroaching on the narrow margin left to the tricksters. The old-time notion of a "BARGAIN" is extinct.

We are still striving to hold the PERMANENT GOOD WILL of our customers and they must trust us not to traffic on our reputation or trade on their faith in us. With us "business is business" only so long as it is right and mutually profitable. We seek for results through merchandise and methods—that appeals to the public sense of Justice.

That's the policy of Pollock & Berg, Fashion Park Clothiers, at 122 Peachtree St.—(adv.)

Important Annual Meeting Held by City Federation

Matters of City, State and National Importance Are Considered at Session.

The annual meeting of the city Federation of Women's Clubs which was held in the assembly hall of the Piedmont hotel Thursday was the most important ever held by this organization.

Matters of importance pertaining to the advancement of the community, the state and the nation were presented to the organization and accepted by the club.

President's Message.

Mrs. Albert Thornton, president, in her annual address stressed the high aims of the federation as an organization of women and pointed out the great responsibility upon each individual member to uphold the ideals for which the federation has worked for the past twenty-five years.

Her message showed that the president was grateful for the efforts of the club members to assist in the work of the state federation, one of outstanding achievements along all lines of women's work.

The subcommittee is considering legislation affecting all of the military camps of the country. The Georgians said that no action toward closing or scrapping the camp should be made for two years, which would give the war department time to adjust their plans and congress time to pass legislation looking towards the future training of the national forces.

They have in mind the elevation of General Pershing to chief of staff of the army. July 1st, when the bill begins, active members will be available for the work of the forces, including the national guard and the reserve corps.

He favors retention of Camp Gordon, while others appear before the committee.

Mr. Smith returned to Atlanta this afternoon and upon arrival he will take up with the city officials and county organizations the data to be presented showing the government's interest to save Camp Gordon from scrapping at this time.

Mr. S. Holcomb, of Washington, Ga., is attending the meeting of Short-Line Railroad managers in session here. Holcomb is general manager of the Washington and Lincoln railroad.

Senator Harris presented to the state today resolutions of the Brunswick club of trial opposing the bill introduced by Senator Harison, of Mississippi, to regulate the naval stores industry.

JAMES WELLS IN RACE FROM EIGHTH WARD

James L. Wells, manager of the Atlanta division of the Whitaker Paper company, started the municipal campaign in the Eighth Ward yesterday, when he formally announced as a candidate for councilman from his eighth ward to succeed Councilman Hoffman, who has the expiration of his present term.

Mr. Hoffman had notified the people of his ward that he would not offer himself for re-election, as he had served for four years and thinks that's long enough, he said yesterday. "I know Mr. Wells, and if he is the choice of the people, I shall be glad to see him succeed."

The term of Councilman Hoffman ends on January 1, 1922. He is one of the most constructive men in the government, especially as he has served as chairman and member of some of the most important committees of that body.

The term of Councilman Hoffman ends on January 1, 1922. He is one of the most constructive men in the government, especially as he has served as chairman and member of some of the most important committees of that body.

James L. Wells, manager of the Atlanta division of the Whitaker Paper company, started the municipal campaign in the Eighth Ward yesterday, when he formally announced as a candidate for councilman from his eighth ward to succeed Councilman Hoffman, who has the expiration of his present term.

Mr. Hoffman had notified the people of his ward that he would not offer himself for re-election, as he had served for four years and thinks that's long enough, he said yesterday. "I know Mr. Wells, and if he is the choice of the people, I shall be glad to see him succeed."

U. S. Industrial Situation Holding Back Stock List

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, May 18.—It is not surprising that many people are badly mixed over the way the stock market has been acting. The Germans agree to the reparation demands of the allies, something everybody had been looking forward to mark the turning point for the better in the general world situation, and the stock market which had gone up 5 points on the average from the low prices for the year, immediately began to sell off. The explanation generally given was that the good news had been discounted. But such news was worth more than a 5-point advance in the stock market. Next, after the stock market had been selling off for nine successive days, Secretary Mellon, whose ability as a financier and business man is widely recognized, came out with the prediction that the bottom had been reached in the decline in commodity prices, and that the economic pendulum was about to swing into several years of prosperity. The result stock-market-wise was a further decline in prices.

Overnight the railroad labor board announces that "prevailing conditions justify to an extent yet to be determined a readjustment downward of the wages of the employees of the carriers which are parties to the dispute already heard." This highly constructive news was greeted today by an advance of a point on the average in the railway shares, followed by weakness in the stock market as a whole.

These stock market incidents were pointed out today to one of the big bankers in Wall street, and the question was then asked: "What is the matter with the market?"

Getting up from his desk, he replied, in his usual voice: "I have got to go upstairs to a meeting." Then, catching hold of your correspondent's coat collar, he leaned over and whispered: "Industrial conditions are rotten."

That about explains why the stock market has been going down on actual news developments that should have made it fairly boil. Because of the slowing down in general trade there has been improvement in the country's financial position. But the improvement in financial conditions has run ahead of improvement in the industrial situation.

Basis Still Exists for Encouragement.

This is not saying that there is not basis for encouragement in the outlook. We are much better off than we were, merely because of the readjustment that has taken place. But there is more readjustment ahead. The readjustment ahead is likely to make progress much faster than that already behind us. And general trade for the last half of this year is certain to be better than for the first six months.

Coming on top of the decision already handed down by the railroad labor board abrogating the uneconomic wartime national agreements, the decision that railway wages are to be cut is news of the best kind. The ninety companies involved are among the largest in the country, and the decision just handed down points out what should be expected from the hearings on the other roads to start June 6. As to what the cut for the ninety roads will be, the increase of last July, which added $625,000,000 to the pay rolls of the carriers, was based on the higher cost of living and the higher wages paid by other industries. Since then other industries have cut wages and reductions have been noted in wholesale and retail prices.

Directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship company met today and passed the semi-annual dividend.

Announcement was made today that the Delaware and Hudson was to lay off 3,000 shopmen. The working force has recently been greatly cut.

Cambria Steel announced today that a cut in wages and salaries would be made effective June 1. This is the second cut since last November. Common labor is to be cut from 35 to 30 cents an hour with all overtime pay at time and a half eliminated.

Peru has issued a government decree, stating that debts owed banks are collectable at maturity, in installments of 10, 20 and 30 per cent, payable in 30, 60 and 90 days, with renewals to be made on a like basis.

Directors of Republic Iron and Steel went into session at 12 o'clock, but announced that action taken on the dividend would not be made public until after 3. The dividend was passed. The old annual rate was 6 per cent.

Corporate Maturities to Aggregate $41,000,000 in May.

Cambria Steel directors passed the quarterly dividend of 50 cents paid three months ago. Previously the quarterly dividend was 75 cents with 25 cents extra. The action just taken, it was officially explained, was due to the fact that business for the first four months of 1921 shows a substantial loss, with the immediate trade outlook not promising.

Corporate maturities for the month of June will aggregate $86,000,000 compared with $41,524,000 for this month and $48,219,000 for June of 1921. Of this total the railroads will pay off $33,072,000, public utility companies $19,030,000 and industrial companies $34,151,000; the largest railroad maturity is the $24,913,000 Pennsylvania 4% bond issue which falls due on the 15th. Arrangements for payment of this maturing issue have already been perfected.

A further decrease of 10,430 in the number of idle cars is reported by the American Railway association for the week ending May 7. This surplus has been decreasing steadily since the peak was hit on April 8, at 47,322, a high record for all time.

The shipment of gold is on the way here from Sweden in small packages estimated to be about $11,000,000. A shipment of 100 cases from the U.S. federal reserve bank arrived yesterday with $2,500,000 arriving Monday. Until the figures are given out by the Federal Reserve Board the exact amount recent gold arrivals cannot be stated. However, it is known that the total now stands at well over $3,000,000,000, a new high record for our gold holdings for all time.

Exports of grain and flour of the country for the month of April totaled $56,000,000 against $55,893,000 for the same month last year, but cotton dropped to $19,000 bales, worth $20,543,000, against $46,000 bales worth $17,000,000, for April, 1920, according to figures published today by the department of commerce. Meat and dairy products this April were shipped out to the amount of $26,000,000 against $40,000,000 a year ago. Mineral oil exports were $38,000,000 against $42,000,000.

"Sowing the Wind."

(At the Criterion.) "One of the best pictures Anita Stewart ever starred in," is the enthusiastic statement of Lee, the critic, referring to that popular star's latest First National release, "Sowing the Wind," at the Criterion. In view of the fact that it is Stewart's first picture since she left the stage, it is thought that she has starred in some of the best photoplays of the times, this enthusiasm indicates something interesting.
